Embark on an Unforgettable Journey with the Magic Tree House

Get ready for an adventure of a lifetime as Jack and Annie, the beloved siblings from the Magic Tree House series, embark on their 20th thrilling escapade in Dingoes at Dinnertime. This time, the magical tree house transports them to the vast and untamed outback of Australia, where they encounter a fascinating world of ancient art, aboriginal culture, and the enigmatic dingoes.

Discover the Wonders of a Lost Civilization

As Jack and Annie explore the Australian wilderness, they stumble upon a hidden cave adorned with intricate aboriginal paintings. These ancient artworks provide tantalizing clues to a lost civilization that once thrived in this land. Together, they embark on a quest to uncover the secrets of this forgotten culture, deciphering symbols and piecing together the fragments of a forgotten history.

Encounter the Enigmatic Dingoes

No adventure in the Australian outback would be complete without encounters with the iconic dingoes. These wild dogs, both feared and revered by the aboriginal people, play a pivotal role in Jack and Annie's journey. From playful encounters to heart-pounding chases, the children learn about the complex nature and ecological importance of these fascinating creatures.

Uncover the Secrets of Ancient Art

Throughout their adventure, Jack and Annie discover the profound significance of aboriginal art. They learn about the Dreamtime, the creation story of the aboriginal people, and how it is expressed through their intricate paintings and carvings. By deciphering the hidden meanings behind these artworks, they gain a deeper understanding of the connection between the aboriginal people and the land they inhabit.
